

PATRIOTS IN THE PROS

The George Mason baseball team has had a long history of sending players on to play professionally. In 28 separate seasons at least one player has either been drafted or signed as a free agent with a minor league team. In all, 61 different players have signed professional contracts after playing at Mason, including a record six off the 2009 team. Five of those players, Mike Draper, Chris Widger, Mike Colangelo, Shawn Camp and Justin Bour have made it to the Major Leagues.
